We were informed this week that the Iron Mountain railroad had decided to run two firemen on all of their trains during the continuance of the hot weather. Last Sunday Engineer Belchamber, on the local, was taken to the hospital for typhoid fever, where he was overcome Saturday with heat, and Monday a fireman gave out at Glen Allen, and had to be taken from his engine. It is said firemen on the main line give out every day from heat.—Fredericktown Democrat-News.

"The Iron County Register is a few leagues beyond the 34th milestone, and Bro. Ake, who has been connected with it all the way down those thirty-four long years, became quite reminiscent last week, and gave his readers a column of mighty interesting reading, such as no one could be the worse for having read. Bro. Ake is well preserved, one of his age, and we trust he may live to see many more years of useful service with his valuable paper, which we hope to enjoy reading as long as we live."—Marble Hill Press.

The pastor of St. Paul's states that the impression that at the change of the parish name from St. Paul's Church to St. James was to be considered is mistaken. It was the change of the general church name from the Episcopal church, which was considered last evening and reasons given for the change the present name was considered unsatisfactory, a hindrance to the church's growth and also to thousands formerly of the Church of England identifying the church here with that in their father land. The church in the United States was considered a fitting substitute at least for the present.

Rev. Chester Birch, the evangelist, will conduct the evening meetings at the "Gospel Assembly" beginning tonight and continuing to Wednesday of next week. Rev. E. J. Brown closes his series of Bible Studies tomorrow morning, and at 10:30 President W. S. Dearmont, of Cape Girardeau State Normal, will give an address on "Christian Education." There will be no morning services on Saturday.

Sunday morning at the time for the regular services, (10:30 A. M.) Rev. W. H. Bates, D. D., of Webster Groves, will preach the sermon. Dr. Bates will remain to conduct the Bible Studies to the end of the Assembly on Wednesday. On Tuesday morning we are also to have addresses by Rev. W. H. Herrick of St. Louis and Rev. G. F. Ayers, Ph. D., of Poplar Bluff.

Bro. Birch will probably conduct a special meeting on Sunday afternoon. This afternoon, (Thursday), Miss Kate Haus of St. Louis, conducts a special meeting for the children. Every child in the community is cordially invited and urged to be present and enjoy a splendid meeting. Miss Haus is celebrated in this line of work. We trust every child who can will take advantage of this opportunity. Everybody is invited, especially the children.

The following is the prayer for rain offered at the close of the service Sunday in St. Paul's Episcopal Church. It is two thousand years old, from the old Jewish temple service, and was translated from the Hebrew by a Jewish Rabbi of St. Louis. "May it be thy will, O our eternal God and God of our fathers, because of these psalms we have recited before thee, and because of thy holy and pure name, to forgive us our sins and pardon our trespasses, for we have sinned and trespassed before thee. Be merciful with us according to thy great compassion, and may thy goodness rule with thy children. Thou art the possessor of the treasures of heaven. Thou hast promised ever to open thy hand for thy children. Open now thy full hands at the gates of heaven. Give us the necessary rain and dew. Thou supportest even the smallest of insects; so support us, even though we have sinned, and though our sin has provoked thee to close against us the gates of the rain. Do this, we pray thee, for the sake of thy great compassion. Thy ways are the ways of forgiveness. Thou givest bread to the ravens. Give us also bread, with dew and rain. Give us bread because of Abraham. Give us bread because of Isaac. Give us bread because of Jacob. Give us bread because of the good deeds which we have done."

Metamorphosis.

That's a big word, but, as old Tony Weller would say, perhaps it is "a more tender word" than a shorter one that might be made to take its place.

Ironton was Ironton "before the war" and Ironton is Ironton in this year of grace 1901.

These propositions, we presume, no one will dispute; and yet Ironton-to-day is not the Ironton, integrally speaking, of 1860. "This one-bladed pocket-knife," said the proud possessor, "is an heirloom. It was brought over in the Mayflower, and has, by descent of the family, descended with the eldest son to the present generation. It shall go to my first-born, and from him on down through the centuries." "Come over in the Mayflower, did you say?" queried an incredulous bystander; "it holds its age mightily well, has a fine edge, and is a good knife yet. I would a thought it would be sharpened to a shadow by this time." "Well, it is in a state of fair preservation; but you must know, since it came over, it has had three new blades and two new handles." From this chestnut, ancient and worn-out, may a moral be drawn. Change, change—always change! There is no such thing as stability. Even time, that tears to tatters the things of earth and apes the measurement of the universe, is not. The past lies dead and buried; the future is nothing until it is the present; and the moment which, a million times divided, forms the present, is more elusive than the globe of quicksilver that defies the touch and disintegrates. Strange that the integer of creation—man—assuming authority over and control of all things earthly should be the least stable of all! The house that he builds, the tree that he plants, the mine that he digs—aye, even the intangible thought that springs from his decaying brain—often outlives him and shelters, serves, or enlightens the generations long after he is again the dust from which he sprang—long after his spirit shall have been gathered to the central source of life or quenched in the pool of oblivion and nothingness.

It is only after the years have, like the grasshopper in famine, become a burden, that one pauses in his onward course, and notes the absence of the old and the novices of the new. Then the awakened consciousness that he is passing—passing—grows and grows, until in revenge of fate he centres all in self; or, if by the gods more happily favored, bends his mind and energies to fitly shape the hastening end.

A few evenings since, we sat upon the stage in the Academy of Music and overlooked the assemblage of youth and life that filled the spacious hall. Beauty and grace, and manly forms were there; "eyes looked love to eyes that spoke again"; the merry strains of the orchestra set tripping feet a-go-ing, and ever and anon the music of light—some laugh welled in happiness from youthful heart, gave added pleasure to the senses. The scene was fair to look upon, and stern the mind and hard the heart that would not call down a blessing upon it! But of all the merry host every face was new, every form was strange, to him of thirty years ago! As the waters of the rivers flow ever onward to the boundless seas and are swallowed up, so glides on and on the stream of humanity into the gulf of eternity; and may it not be, as the untasteful drops of the poisoned ocean are taken up by the blessed sunrays and again showered sweet and fruitful upon the parching land, so are the souls, stained and corrupted through the power of Evil, gathered to the bosom of Him, and returned pure and undefiled to earth, in His infinite way of working out the Problem of Life?

With this labored preface and an apology to its devoted readers for his attempting it, the editor of the REGISTER, proposes, each succeeding week, to go back and call up an attendant ghost of the old Ironton, materialize it, and set it out before the admiring(?) populace.

Would Have Cost Him His Life.
Oscar Bowman, Lebanon, Ky., writes: "I have been using Foley's Kidney Cure and take great pleasure in stating it gave me permanent cure of kidney disease which certainly would have cost me my life." Take none but Foley's. Arcadia Valley Drug Co.

Mann, Mo.
The drouth continues, and all crops will be almost a failure.
The wheat crop was good, and most of our farmers are going to keep their wheat for feed.
Vegetables of all descriptions have failed to make anything, and consequently our farmers are buying their supplies.

Quite a number of the young men who went to Granite City, Ill., have returned on account of the hot weather and bad water.
Mr. Charles Bond and Miss Nezzie Stewart visited in Flat River Saturday and Sunday.
Rev. Waymond preached his farewell sermon at Pleasant Valley church Sunday night. He intends to remove to Flat River in a few days.

The hub mill at Brule, is manufacturing hubs at a lively rate, and employment is furnished to a number of our people, which gives them an opportunity to work and be at home.
Our merchants and blacksmith have a good trade since there is so much work, and the demand for timber makes money much more plentiful.

Mrs. J. S. Eaton and son, and Miss Dell Robinson visited relatives in the Valley the past week. They returned to their home at Edgemoor Friday.
Mr. Shaffer, of Irondale, had business here Friday.
Mr. Ike Lashley started to St. Louis Saturday, where he goes to get employment for a few weeks.

Mr. Lee is putting in a stock of groceries at Brule this week.
The wheat is about all threshed in this immediate locality.
Mr. Thos. Anderson had some kind of business in the vicinity of Belgrade Sunday.
July 29, 1901.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.
Take Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

St. Louis Letter.

EDITED BY J. W. JAQUITH & CO.

Four troops of cavalry have arrived at Jefferson Barracks, from Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., and consist of the 11th Cavalry under command of Col. Francis Moore. Everything at the Barracks is in excellent order, and they will also visit the rifle range at Arcadia.

Anyone wishing to buy harness, call on A. Rieke, at the Budweiser Depot. August acts as Pink's agent after the harness shop is closed.

The new depot is being built at Bismarck, Mo., opposite to where the old City Hotel formerly stood.

Speaker James H. Cronin, of the House of Delegates, was a welcome visitor to the Club. Jim's motto is: "Get on the grass if you want to." Mayor Wells, Kid Sheridan and other well-known local Democratic politicians were seen at the Suburban last Monday. We understand the Mayor has a weakness for high-balls this hot weather.

We understand that Fred Killalee will embark in the saloon business in the near future. Fred says this will be cheaper than patronizing the "Jester."

W. H. Warner, the only and original "Pete," who does business for the Etna Life Insurance Company is all smiles—it's a girl.

A well-dressed gentleman who wished to increase the medium of exchange, tried to pass a twenty dollar bill on our friend, Hugh T. Pattison, which was raised from a five. The aforesaid gentleman is now in the city hospital—the doctors say he may recover.

We wonder if Jake has read Rudyard Kipling's poem, entitled "Buy, buy, buy!"

Some one stole John the bartender's corkscrew, and he tried to pull the stopper out of a seltzer bottle with his toes. Doc Newcomb patched him up, and says his leg is almost as good as new.

We wish to thank several of our correspondents for articles which we did not find time to copy. They were appreciated, however, and we hope our friends will let us hear from them again.

Mr. Daniel Bantz, Ottaville, Ia., says: "Have had asthma and a very bad cough for years, but could get no relief from the doctors and medicines I tried, until I took Foley's Honey and Tar. It gave immediate relief, and made more good than all the other remedies combined." Arcadia Valley Drug Co.

Blemel.

Died—At his residence in Ironton, Mo., July 17, 1901, John Blemel, aged 44 years, 9 months, and 8 days.

Mr. Blemel was born in Germany but came to America in early age. He was a resident of Ironton for 20 years. About 17 years ago he was united in marriage to Miss Louisa Sontag, of St. Louis, and of the union were born four children—one daughter and three sons—all of whom, with their mother, survive. He had been in business for about fifteen years, and was known in the community as an honest man. The strictest integrity governed all his dealings, and he died without an enemy. Peace to his ashes.

The bereaved widow and orphaned children have the profoundest sympathy of all the community, and the REGISTER extends to them its sincere condolence.

Wm. Finn of Lima, O., obtained excellent results from the use of Foley's Kidney Cure. "It relieved my backache and severe pain over the hips. It toned my system and gave me new vim and energy. It is an honest and reliable remedy—a sure cure for all kidney diseases." Arcadia Valley Drug Co.

Resolutions of Respect.

We, your committee, beg leave to submit the following resolutions to Iron Lodge, No. 107, I. O. O. F., and the bereft family of our late brother, John Blemel.

Who leaves a vacant chair at home that can never be filled, and his presence in the Lodge room is missed, he has only been called to a higher and better life. As a man he was mainly, as a husband, true, a father kind, and as an Odd Fellow he was a brother in every respect. And while we note with deepest regret a vacancy at home and at Lodge, God has seen fit to call our brother from us; be it resolved, That we extend to the family our sincere sympathies, and ask them to put their trust in Him who is a Father to the fatherless, and a husband to the widow, and who is the Giver of every good and perfect gift. Be it further

Resolved, That as a token of respect to our worthy brother, our charter be draped in mourning for thirty days, and a copy of these resolutions be sent to the minute book of our Lodge, and a copy be sent to the family, and also a copy be sent to the two county papers and the Triple Link for publication.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy and he said, 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not get relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured." For sale by Arcadia Valley Drug Co.
